No. 157.—The following notification of the Government of India is republished :—

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

TARIFF.

New Delhi, the 1st April 1933.

No. 130-T. (17).—In their Resolution in the Department of Commerce No. 130-T (17), dated the 5th September 1931, the Government of India analysed the Report of the Indian Tariff Board on the Heavy Chemical Industry and announced the conclusions at which they themselves had arrived after consideration of the Report and the action which they proposed to take. By the Heavy Chemical Industry (Protection) Act of 1931 protective duties at different rates were placed upon certain specified chemicals subject to the proviso that in each case the ordinary revenue duty would be applicable whenever it was higher than the protective duty. Section 3 of the Act provides that the protective duties on all the specified chemicals other than magnesium chloride shall have effect only up to the 31st March 1933.

2. In the Resolution cited above the reasons for limiting the operation of the protective duties to a period of about a year and a half were stated, and in moving for the consideration of the Bill in the Legislative Assembly on the 21st September 1931 the Hon'ble Commerce Member clearly explained why the Government of India were unable to propose the grant of substantive protection to the heavy chemical industry unless and until they were satisfied after further enquiry that certain conditions upon which the scheme of protection framed by the Tariff Board depended were likely to be fulfilled. The questions which, in the opinion of Government, required further investigation were the following :—

(a) Whether there was any likelihood of the principal manufacturers of heavy chemicals in India reorganizing the industry in combination with each other and so making economic production possible.

(b) Whether the actual and potential demand in India for superphosphate was sufficiently large and assured to justify the grant of State assistance in the form of a bounty to the manufacturers of this fertiliser.

(c) Whether superphosphate was capable of being manufactured in India at a cost which would enable it at any time to compete with the imported article on equal terms.

3. In regard to the first question, in paragraph 12 of the Resolution already cited the Government of India stated that they would be prepared to discuss with representatives of the chemical manufacturing interests how the question of developing the industry could best be studied further. No response was received to that suggestion, and enquiries were therefore made, at the instance of the Government of India, by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal from the principal manufacturers in these Provinces. The result of those enquiries may be summed up as follows. In no instance was any indication given of an intention on the part of chemical manufacturers to work for more economic production by a combination of furnaces, the view that the Indian market for heavy chemicals is insufficient to render truly economic production by the existing concerns possible gained support from statements made by manufacturers themselves, while it was alleged by one large manufacturer that the price of acids is now regulated by internal competition and that over-production of certain chemicals already takes place.

4. The second question has been examined in the light of all the evidence available by the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, who have consulted the Fertilisers Committee appointed by the Council, Directors of Agriculture and other persons specially qualified to express opinions of value. While finality is not claimed for the results of such tests as have been made, the great majority of the opinions are unfavourable to any scheme of State assistance to the manufacture of superphosphate. The Tariff Board in 1929 estimated the total consumption of superphosphate in India at about 10,000 tons, and while this figure, in the opinion of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, may not be an overestimate of the present demand if prices were reduced, the view expressed by the Tariff Board, in paragraph 52 of its Report, that some 30,000 tons would not improbably be required within a comparatively short period has received no support.

5. As regards the third question, the Government of India caused enquiries to be made by two experts, working independently, into the cost of production of superphosphate in India. Each of these two enquiries produced an estimate of the cost of production somewhat higher than, though not strikingly different from, that made by the Tariff Board. One of the reports, however, contained the conclusions that, to judge from such statistics as could be obtained, the total consumption of superphosphate in India has dropped for below 10,000 tons a year, that even if an output of 10,000 tons could be attained by a single factory in India no proper estate of manufacture in India at a cost sufficiently low to enable it to compete with the imported article, and that, since an annual output of not less than 40,000 tons ought to be considered under modern conditions to represent a reasonably economic scale of production, the Indian manufacturer, with his very small internal market and his reliance upon imported sulphur and raw phosphate, could not hope to compete on equal terms with the manufacturers in certain other countries.

4. The result of these enquiries provides, in the opinion of the Government of India, a definite answer to the question whether protection to the heavy chemical industry should be continued. Any scheme for the grant of State assistance to the manufacture of superphosphate could clearly have no justification on any ground, and, in the absence of a superphosphate manufacturing industry, the additional market for sulphuric acid for which the Tariff Board hoped India to undertake. In the words of the Tariff Board, the chemical industry in India can have no future so long as its industries are carried on in small units with low production and no indication has appeared of any desire on the part of existing manufacturing interests to concentrate production into a small number of economic units for the supply of the existing market. In these circumstances, the only result of continuing protection to the heavy chemical industry would be to perpetuate uneconomic manufacture and to place a burden on the consumer of such chemicals for an indefinite period with no prospect of any national advantage. The Government of India accordingly decided to place on proposals before the Legislature for the continuance of protection to the heavy chemical industry after the 31st March 1933. This protective duty on manganese chloride, which is in force until the 31st March 1933, remains unaffected by this decision.

ARMY DEPARTMENT.

JUDICIAL.

Delhi, 19th December 1924.

No. 1636.—IN THE MATTER OF THE CHARITABLE ENDOWMENTS ACT VI OF 1890, AND IN THE MATTER OF THE SILVER WEDDING FUND.

Whereas the Fund known as the Silver Wedding Fund (hereinafter called the said Fund) subscribed as an offering to Her Majesty the Queen-Empress as a token of loyalty and affection on the occasion on the 25th Anniversary of Their Imperial Majesties Wedding was, at the request of Her Majesty, vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the Punjab (by Notification No. 3152, published in Part I of the Gazette of India, dated the 25th October 1910), for the purpose therein mentioned.

And whereas by Notification No. 965, published in Part I of the Gazette of India, dated the 2nd August 1924, the said Fund as it then existed was transferred to the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for Bengal for the purposes aforesaid.

And whereas it being found that the said Fund is greater than is required for the purposes set out in the said Notification No. 3152, dated the 25th October 1910, Her Majesty the Queen-Empress graciously intimated her willingness that, subject to the sanction of the Court being obtained the purposes for which the said Fund should be applied, be extended so as to include the purposes set out in the following recital.

And whereas in a suit in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, No. 2267 of 1924, intituled Advocate General of Bengal and another v. *Capt. S. And it was ordered and decreed that the defendants, the Administrators of the said Fund, give effect to the objects of the said Trust in the manner hereinbefore declared and apply the said Fund towards assisting those who come under the said objects as extended by the said decree, and the administrators of the Fund have accordingly applied to the Governor General in Council to amend the said Notifications Nos. 3152 and 965.

And whereas the said Fund now comprises the securities and cash specified in Schedule A.

Now in pursuance and exercise of the powers conferred by and by virtue of sections 6 and 7 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, and any other powers thereto enabling in supersession of the said Notification No. 3152, dated the 25th October 1910, and Notification No. 965, dated 2nd August 1924, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED by the Governor-General in Council that the said Fund, which is now vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the territories subject to the Government of Bengal under Notification No. 965, dated the 2nd August 1924, on the terms therein mentioned, shall now be vested upon the following terms, that is to say, that the said Fund and the income thereof shall be devoted to and applied for the education and assistance of children and dependants of Indian officers and soldiers (including non-combatants) who rendered military service under the Crown during the Great War or who took part or may hereafter take part in subsequent war-like operations in accordance with the Scheme settled by the Governor-General in Council on the application of the Administrators under powers conferred by sections 5 and 7 of the said Charitable Endowments Act, a copy of which is set forth in Schedule "B" hereto.

Rules for the award of scholarships from the Silver Wedding Fund for study abroad.

An occasional scholarship may be awarded from the Fund from time to time for higher training outside India. No applications are invited for such a scholarship, but Directors of Public Instruction are at liberty to submit the applications of suitable candidates before the first of January of the year in which they desire to pursue their studies in Europe. The scholarships may be of the value of £300 a year tenable for a period of three or four years, according to the course of study to be pursued; free second-class passages from Bombay to London and back will be provided. Such scholarships were originally confined to graduates of Indian Universities under the age of 22 years, but it has been subsequently decided to consider also applications from non-graduates who are successful in examinations not conducted by a University, and to refrain from laying down any hard and fast rules specifying an age limit. A scholarship will not ordinarily be awarded for the study of subjects in which suitable provision for training is available in India. Furthermore, only those students will be considered for scholarships who are brilliant and whose fathers have rendered exceptional services and have very limited means.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of State on the 29th March 1933 :—

C. OF S. BILL No. 2 OF 1933.

A Bill to amend the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, hereinafter referred to as "the said Act," for the purposes hereinafter appearing; XVIII of 1879

It is hereby enacted as follows, namely :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Legal Practitioners Amendment Act, 193 , and shall apply to the whole of British India.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

2. At the end of the section 13 of the said Act, add the following explanation :—

"The words 'reasonable cause' in clause (f) refer to and must be intended always to have referred only to acts done in professional capacity."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill is necessitated by the tendency of the High Courts to assume jurisdiction over the public and the private activities of a practitioner unconnected with his professional capacity.

The Legal Practitioners Act must have intended only to take notice of professional malpractices. The superintendence and control by the High Court over non-professional activities of practitioners is being justly resented.

The jurisdiction of the High Court in this matter is founded always on the general words used in section 13, clause (f), which according to the established canons of interpretation must refer to a course 'ejusdem generis.' The Lordships of the Privy Council in interpreting a similar clause in Order 47, rule 1 of the Civil Procedure Code, have held it to mean a reason sufficient on the grounds at least analogous to those specified immediately previously.

This Bill is meant to remove the doubt regarding the interpretation of clause 13 (f) and to restrict its scope definitely to professional misconduct.

The Bill is given retrospective effect to remove the hardships done to practitioners by the wrong interpretation of clause 13 (f).

PART III.

Adaptations of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, to provide for the summary assessments of income tax on total incomes of less than Rs. 2 000.

1. The Income-tax Officer may, save where he has served a notice under sub-section (2) of section 22 of the Indian Income tax Act, 1922, make a summary assessment of the income of an assessee to the best of his judgment, and shall serve on the assessee a notice of demand in a form to be prescribed by the Central Board of Revenue; and such notice shall be deemed to be a notice of demand under section 29 of that Act.

2. Any assessee in respect of whom such summary assessment has been made may, within thirty days of receipt of the notice of demand, make an application to the Income tax Officer for the cancellation or revision of the assessment, and the Income tax Officer shall, after examining any accounts and documents and hearing any evidence which the assessee may produce, and such other evidence as the Income-tax Officer may require, determine, by order in writing, the amount of the tax, if any, payable by the assessee, and such determination shall be final:

Provided that, if any assessee making such application files therewith a return of his income under sub section (2) of section 22 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the application shall be deemed to be a return under that sub-section and shall be dealt with accordingly.

3. A copy of an order under paragraph 2 shall be served on the assessee to whom it relates and shall be deemed to be a notice of demand under section 29 of the Indian Income tax Act, 1922.

4. The above procedure shall apply also to the assessment and collection during the financial year 1933-34 of incomes of Rs. 1,000 and upward and less than Rs. 2,000 which have escaped assessment in the financial year 1932-33.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to continue for a further period of one year certain duties and taxes imposed under the Indian Finance Act 1931, read with the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931.

2. Clauses 2, 4, 6 and 7 provide for the continuance for a further period of one year of the existing provisions regarding salt duty, inland postage rates, rates of income tax and super-tax and the credit to revenue of interest on securities forming part of the Paper Currency Reserve. The duty of one rupee four annas per maund on salt remains liable to the additional duty imposed by section 5 of the Indian Finance (Supplementary and Extending) Act, 1931.

As it is proposed to retain the tax on incomes of Rs. 1,000 and upwards and below Rs. 2,000 per annum, clause 5 (a) provides for the continuance of the existing procedure for the assessment of such incomes, which has already been approved by the Legislature.

3. Clause 3 provides for the following alterations in customs tariff :—

(i) it fixes a minimum specific duty of 2½ annas including surcharge on uppers of boots and shoes not made entirely of leather;

(ii) it fixes minimum specific duties of 4 annas per square yard and 2 annas and 3 pies per square yard respectively, with no surcharge, on artificial silk piece-goods and artificial silk mixtures and reduces off the existing ad valorem duty including surcharge, of 34⅓ths per cent on artificial silk mixtures to 25 per cent with no surcharge.

The reasons for making these changes have been fully explained in my budget speech.

4. Clause 5 provides for the re-imposition of the stamp duty on cheques and on bills of exchange which are payable on demand for a limited period of three years from the 1st July 1933. The object of this provision is also explained in my budget speech.

NEW DELHI,
The 28th February 1933. GEORGE SCHUSTER.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 13th March 1933 :—

L. A. BILL No. 9 OF 1933.

A Bill to amend the Cotton Textile Industry Protection Act, 1930.

WHEREAS it is expedient to continue for a further period the protection already given to the cotton textile industry in British India, and for that purpose to extend the operation of the duties imposed by the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

XVII of 1930.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Cotton Textile Industry Protection (Amendment) Act, 1933.

Amendment of section 2, and S. Act XVII of 1930.

XVII of 1930.

2. In sub-section (2) of section 2, and in sub-section (2) of section 3 of the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930, for the word "March" the word "October" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

By the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930, protective duties were imposed on cotton piece-goods for a period of three years in order to give the cotton mill industry in India temporary shelter against foreign competition. By the same Act the operation of the duty imposed by the Indian Tariff (Cotton Yarn Amendment) Act, 1927, was extended for a further period of three years on account of the unfair competition arising from the prevalence of inferior labour conditions in China. These duties will expire on the 31st March 1933. An assurance was, however, given by Government to the Legislature, when the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Bill was under consideration, that before the termination of the three-year period the effect of the duties on the production of cotton piece-goods in India and on the Indian cotton textile industry would be examined in a Tariff Board enquiry.

2. The enquiry has been held; but the Board's report was received by the Government of India later than they had originally hoped and the pressure of urgent public business has left insufficient time for the full consideration by Government of a matter of such great importance and complexity. A final decision with regard to the report has not yet been reached and it has, therefore, become necessary to take steps to meet the situation which will arise when the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930, expires on March 31st, 1933. The Bill, accordingly, proposes to extend the operation of the duties imposed by the said Act up to the 31st October 1933, pending formulation of the decision of the Government of India in the matter of the continued protection to the cotton textile industry.

"240 A ..	The following RAW MATERIALS, namely, liquid gold, 1264 carried crucibles for glass-making.	Ad valorem ..	25 per cent.	35 per cent. .. ".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

A few inaccuracies and discrepancies in the Indian Tariff (Ottawa Trade Agreement) Amendment Act, 1932, have been brought to light by a further scrutiny of the Schedules to that Act and by practical experience of the new tariffs, and the object of this Bill is to correct them. The substance of the Bill is contained in the Schedule of amendments, the items whereof are explained below in detail.

Items 1 and 2.—Ferrous sulphate (green iron sulphate) is the same substance as green copperas as specified in Item No. 50 of the Import Schedule. Its inclusion in Item No 58 was by inadvertence. These two items delete the reference to ferrous sulphate in Item No. 58 and Article Item No 50 so as to avoid misconception in the future

Item 3 supplies an omission by including mount white lead among the painters' materials which are not subject to preferential duties.

Item 4.—In accordance with the Trade Agreement copper sheets and copper brazing have been made dutiable under Item No 156 and Item No 98, respectively, of the Import Schedule. It is now found that in practice no distinction between the two is recognised by the trade, and it is accordingly proposed to delete the reference to copper brazers in Item No. 98 of the Schedule so that they will become automatically included in Item No. 156.

Items 5 and 9.—Newsprint is expressly excluded from preference by No 120 of Schedule F to the Ottawa Trade Agreement. No heading for newsprint as such exists in the Import Schedule, but Item No. 155 of that Schedule, which gives protection to printing paper other than newsprint, defines newsprint by implication as being printing paper in which the mechanical wood pulp amounts to not less than 70 per cent of the fibre content. The Indian Tariff (Ottawa Trade Agreement) Amendment Act, 1933, makes this class of paper dutiable under Item No. 197 of the Import Schedule, with the unintended result that preference has been given to the United Kingdom in respect of it. It is proposed to correct this by specifically including in Item No. 197 only those kinds of printing paper which are specifically excluded from the protective duty in Item No. 155, namely, chrome, marble, flint, poster and micro printing paper, and to restore newsprint to the non-preferential part of the Schedule as Item No. 99 in Part V.

At the same time opportunity has been taken to reduce the miscellaneous heads by omitting Item No 117, relating to straw board, and including straw board in Item No. 99 along with newsprint.

Item 7.—Tea chests and parts and fittings thereof are not required to be given preference under the Trade Agreement. These are, not specified in the Import Schedule, and to make the position clear it is proposed to insert a specific item in Part V of the Import Schedule making them subject to the ordinary non-preferential rate of duty.

Item 8.—By No. 48 of Schedule I of the Trade Agreement gas mantles of British origin are entitled to 10 per cent preference To secure this quota definitely, and to ensure that these articles when made of artificial silk are not assessed under Item No. 133 of the Import Schedule, the words "incandescent mantles" have been specifically included in Item No. 185

Item 10.—Most lubricating oils are mixtures of mineral and non-mineral oils. In practice it has hitherto been found necessary to require lubricating oils containing more than 7 per cent of non-mineral constituents to be assessed to duty as nonspecific articles; but owing to the existence in the new form of the Import Schedule of a large number of separate heads for oil dutiable ad valorem rates, the application of this principle has, for administrative reasons, become impracticable. The entry in column 2 of Item No. 222 has accordingly been redrafted, so as to include in the item oils other than mineral, pure and mixed, which are not ordinarily used for any purpose other than lubrication.

Item 11.—The Trade Agreement provides for the grant to the Colonies of preference on "Drugs and Medicines," and on soda ash and other carbonates of soda, and for no preference on other chemicals. Since, however, customs and administrative difficulties make it impossible to differentiate between unspecified chemicals on the one hand and drugs and medicines on the other, unspecified chemicals, if any, which are the produce of the Colonies, were included along with drugs and medicines in Item No 183. This condition does not obtain in regard to the specified glass-making chemicals included in Item No. 223, in respect of which there need be no Colonial preference. Accordingly it is proposed to delete the entry in the last column.

Item 12 corrects a wrong reference.

Item 13.—Fountain pens are included under "Stationery" in the Trade Returns but according to a long-standing rule fountain pens with gold nibs are assessed to duty as composite articles; so that while the barrels are dutiable as Stationery, the nibs are assessed as manufactures of gold. The preference given by the Trade Agreement has therefore to be provided for separately for gold nibs and it is proposed to insert in the Import Schedule a new Item No. 232A for gold and gold-plated nibs, and to fix the preferential rate of duty on them at 40 per cent ad valorem and the standard rate at 60 per cent ad valorem.

Item 14.—A specially low duty was fixed under Item No. 238 of the Import Schedule for certain chemicals, on representations made by the glass-making industry. The representations included reference to two other articles, namely, boiled gold and crucibles for glass-making, but action in respect of these was deferred as it was not known if the terms used were sufficiently precise for a statutory schedule. The industry was given relief meanwhile by a notification under section 23 of the Sea Customs Act. These two articles are now included in proposed Item No. 240A, with a standard duty of 25 per cent and a preferential duty of 15 per cent ad valorem.

NEW DELHI,

J. W. BHORE.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 20th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 12 OF 1933

A Bill further to extend the operation of the Salt (Additional Import Duty) Act, 1931.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to extend the operation of the Salt (Additional Import Duty) Act, 1931; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XIV of 1931.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Salt Additional Import Duty (Extending) Act, 1933.

Amendment of section 1, Act XIV of 1931. 2. In sub-section (3) of section 1 of the Salt (Additional Import Duty) Act, 1931 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), for the figures "1933" the figures "1934" shall be substituted. XIV of 1931.

Amendment of section 3, Act XIV of 1931. 3. In sub-section (7) of section 3 of the said Act, for the word "four" the word "two" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 4, Act XIV of 1931. 4. In sub-section (d) of section 5 of the said Act, for the words "sixty-three rupees eleven annas," in both places where the words occur, the words "fifty-four rupees twelve annas" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The purpose of this Bill is to give effect to the recommendation made by the Salt Industry Committee of the Legislative Assembly, for reasons stated in their report, that the life of the Salt (Additional Import Duty) Act, 1931, should be extended for another year, subject to certain modifications.

NEW DELHI,
The 16th March 1933.

GEORGE SCHUSTER.

The following report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto. Papers Nos. 1—V.

2. The Bill as amended by us is based on three main decisions of principle. We propose to discuss these decisions first and then to indicate how the Bill carries them into effect.

(1) Our first decision was that the new powers proposed to be conferred by the Bill should be restricted to motor transport and air services, and that there is no case for allowing railways to establish inland water-way services other than the services they are already empowered to run under section 51 of the main Act. We are agreed, however, that the power to provide transport "for the reasonable convenience of passengers, animals or goods carried or to be carried on its railway", as at present conferred under clause (a) of that section, must be maintained in the public interests. These two objects cannot be achieved conveniently by an amendment of clause (a), and we think they will be best secured by a new section dealing exclusively with the proposed new powers.

(2) We discussed at length the means for securing that local opinion should be consulted and local interests considered before any railway company is allowed to start a new motor or air service. We cannot in the Bill require the local Railway Advisory Committees to be consulted, as these bodies have no statutory existence, and on some railways have no existence at all. To introduce local authorities might create difficulty and confusion, as the structure and terminology of local self-government varies so much from province to province. In these circumstances, we are agreed that the most elastic method will be to require the Governor-General in Council to consult Local Governments concerned before any scheme is sanctioned, and we have no doubt that the Local Governments will consult local authorities interested in the scheme, and will pay due regard to all local interests.

(3) The third important decision we reached was that railway companies should not receive any differential treatment whatsoever in respect of these new services. In particular our intention is that they should not enjoy any exemptions from taxation or from licensing regulations, but should compete with private enterprise on level terms.

We discussed also the insertion of some provision which would specifically limit the radius within which these services should be allowed to operate, but came to the conclusion that such a provision is not practicable and might have undesired results. There is the initial difficulty of estimating what is a reasonable radius, and there are many other difficulties as well. A radius of fifty miles for instance, may be too much in a thickly populated country but too little in a sparsely populated country, and with any specified radius there may be several stretches of road on which no railway company could reasonably expect to be allowed to run a motor service. We decided that, for the present, it will be best to leave the decision to the Governor General in Council, acting in consultation with the Local Government, to determine the extent of such service, on a full consideration of all the local circumstances.

3. In accordance with these decisions clause 2 of the Bill has been entirely recast by us. Instead of amending clause (e) of section 51, we propose to insert a new section 51 A consisting of five sub sections.

Sub-section (1) empowers a railway company (other than the guaranteed companies covered by 42 and 43 Vict., Chap. 41) to frame a scheme for a motor transport or air service, and imposes one limiting condition—that the service must have one terminus at or near a station on the railway.

Under sub-section (2) the scheme is to be submitted to the Governor-General in Council, who is required to consult the Local Governments concerned, and is empowered to impose any modifications and conditions he may think fit.

Sub section (3) requires the final scheme to be published in the Gazette of India for the information of all concerned; and empowers a railway company to inaugurate the new service in accordance with its terms and in accordance with all applicable enactments and rules.

Sub section (4) is intended to place the railway company, in operating any such service, on level terms with any company, firm or individual operating a like service. This provision will give the railway company no advantage, and does not impose on it any disadvantage, as compared with private enterprise. The sub-section also safeguards the powers of Local Governments in respect of the regulation of the use of roads.

4. Though we have entirely recast the one substantive clause of the Bill we have not altered its main principle. The change is merely a restriction and partial definition of the power proposed in the Bill as introduced.

Accordingly we think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

L.A. BILL No. 13 OF 1933.

A Bill to remove the disabilities of the so-called Depressed Classes in regard to entry into Hindu temples.

WHEREAS it is increasingly felt by the Hindu community that the disabilities imposed by custom and usage on certain classes of Hindus in respect of entry into their temples should be removed ;

AND WHEREAS doubts have been entertained whether trustees and others in charge of management of such temples have power to make any innovation contrary to the established custom or usage of the temples;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient that the law as administered by the courts should no longer prevent a trustee from allowing to any class of Hindus, who might have been excluded from a temple under his management, entry into such temple, if the Hindu community in the locality is generally minded to allow such entry ;

(b) the manner of publication of the notices and orders of the trustee ;

(c) the method of obtaining the opinions of the voters ; and

(d) the decision of disputes regarding the ascertainment of such opinions.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The custom of segregation of certain classes of the Hindu community as untouchable and the social disabilities they suffer from have been the subject of universal condemnation. There has been continuous agitation on the part of leaders of these classes as well on the part of reformers among caste-Hindus to break the custom and remove the disabilities. Recent events have brought this agitation to a head and there is at present a great wave of feeling throughout India for the removal of disabilities of these "depressed classes" as they have correctly been called. Public agitation is specially focussed on the exclusion of these classes from entry into the ordinary Hindu temples along with caste-Hindus. Public Hindu Temples being places of more or less free and equal association of all sections and denominations of caste-Hindus in the worship of their common Gods, it is felt that these "depressed classes" should also be given the right of entry into these temples for purposes of worship. In spite of great advance in public opinion established usage is enforced as law to the prejudice of these classes, and no change or innovation is permitted. Not only have Courts treated the entry of members of these classes into Hindu temples as a defilement thereof punishable by the Indian Penal Code, but doubts have been felt as to the authority of trustees in charge of temples generally to permit such entry even when they feel that public opinion among the worshippers favours such entry. In the opinion of many trustees the Law of the land and section 40 of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act II of 1927 in particular, stands in the way of any change. It is, therefore, necessary to enact a law of a permissive character enabling the removal of the bar where local public opinion favours such reform.

C. S. RANGA IYER.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 14 OF 1933.

A Bill to repeal the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929.

WHEREAS it is expedient to repeal the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XIX of 1929.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Child Marriage Restraint (Repealing) Act, 1933. Short title and extent.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

2. The Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929, is hereby repealed. XIX of 1929. Repeal of Act XIX of 1929.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Child Marriage Restraint Act of 1929 was originally introduced in the Legislative Assembly as a Bill to regulate marriages of Hindu girls under twelve years of age. The objects and reasons clearly show that the idea was to confine its operation and secure its alleged benefit to the Hindus, and to achieve that object by declaring that marriages performed against the proposed provisions were invalid. When, however, it was found that both on religious and legal grounds it would be objectionable to interfere with the validity of marriages once performed, the original purpose was proposed to be achieved in the Select Committee by making the performance of such marriages criminal, by imposing penalties on those who participated in them and by naming the Bill a "Child Marriage Restraint Bill." Such an alteration of a measure which was originally intended to be of a purely civil nature and accepted as such by the Assembly into a penal enactment and that in the case of a single community, was felt to be invidious, and this necessitated a further departure on the part of the Select Committee from the principle accepted by the Assembly by making it general in its scope, and applying it to all classes and communities in British India. In doing so, however, the committee were doubtful as to the propriety of materially amending as the Bill whose principle had been accepted by the Assembly, and of adopting the unusual step of substituting a new Bill of quite a different nature in the Select Committee, a step entirely opposed to Parliamentary practice and procedure, but they eventually justified their attitude upon grounds somewhat inconsistent with their own recommendations regarding the further stages of the Bill, which it is unnecessary to dilate upon. The gratuitous extension of the measure to the Muhammadan community at that juncture in disregard of their protests created a serious complication, and in order to disarm the opposition of the Muslim members of the Select Committee the minimum marriageable age for girls was raised to 14 from 12 (and in some cases even 11 years), originally fixed in the Bill.

The result of the alterations above detailed was that the original object with which the Bill was introduced, viz., to protect the Hindu society from the many alleged evils that it was subject to was entirely lost sight of, and the reason with which the author of the Bill proposed to proceed in the matter by making the Bill agreeable to the most conservative Hindu opinion which holds the belief based on their religion that a girl should not remain unmarried after she attains puberty, was not at naught by insisting that there shall be no pre-puberty marriages among the Hindus except under pain of punishment. Every important community including the Muhammadans protested against the Bill, but it was passed in utter defiance of the virtually unanimous opposition of the country.

It is now admitted that a very wide feeling of resentment has been aroused in the minds of the great mass of population both Hindus and Muhammadans, who are still wedded to their ancient culture and traditions by the passing of this measure and that even politically it was a serious mistake. It is a well known fact that numerous marriages in contravention of the provisions of the Act have been celebrated both by Hindus and Muhammadans even after their coming into force, and the Government have so far wisely taken a lenient view of the situation. But there are indications that their hands might be forced to strictly apply the provisions of the Act, especially in regard to the institution of prosecutions, with the result that the religious feelings and susceptibilities of the very large mass of the population otherwise peaceful and law-abiding would be seriously inflamed and redound on the country and the Government and thus become a political danger. It is absolutely necessary to prevent such a state of affairs.

The Act not only contravenes the fundamental principle of religious neutrality consistently held by the British Government as one of their "cardinal articles of faith," but it is also ultra vires of the Assembly inasmuch as it is repugnant to the provisions of section 18 of the East India Company Act, 1780 (21 Geo II, c. 70), and of section 43 of the East India Company Act 1797 (37 Geo III, c. 142). It is further ultra vires inasmuch as the Governor General's sanction, even if it could be validly given to a measure of this nature was given for a Bill of a purely civil nature intended to apply to the Hindus alone and the present Bill which was a different and entirely new Bill as admitted by the Select Committee could not be covered by such sanction.

In the course of the discussions both at the time of the final debate on the Bill and subsequently, much misapprehension on existed regarding the true nature of a Muhammadan marriage on the ground that it was not a sacrament in the sense that a Hindu marriage is, but a purely civil contract. My own opinion had always been that the real basis of a Muhammadan marriage is religious, but in view of the controversy raging round the question, I considered it advisable not to rake up the two questions, and, therefore, gave notice last December of a Bill to amend the Act by exempting certain classes of the Hindu community from the operation of the Act. Since then the Honourable the Law Member in the course of the debate on Dr. Gour's Bill has made the position clear by admitting and if I may respectfully say so, by rightly admitting that the fundamental basis of a Muslim marriage is religious sanction, and is so bound up with their religion which it was a mistake to suppose was a purely civil contract.

In view of this and the inherent nature of a Muhammadan marriage as ably pointed out by Maulvi Muhammad Yakub in his Dissenting Minute to the Age of Consent Committee Report, I felt no hesitation as to the course to be adopted. I have, therefore, framed this Bill by which I propose that the "Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929," be wholly repealed.

I would only venture to add that it is impossible for the true Hindu whose law is based on the Vedas Smritis, and other sacred books, and is believed to have a transcendental origin, or for the true Muhammadan who believes that his sacred books lay down a complete set of their codified have including socio-religious matters, to agree that such a law can be changed by the Legislature of the country and by the votes of men, a good many of whom have no real faith in their religious and social organization, and who, therefore, have no proper aptitude for judgment from a truly Hindu or Muhammadan point of view or have otherwise an sufficient sympathy for, or technical knowledge, or mental equipment for the purpose. Democracy, even in its modern sense, was never meant for the effectuation of radical changes in the secret religious systems of the Hindus, Muhammadans or any other communities which take revelation as embodied in their Sacred Books as their socio-religious basis.

G. KRISHNAMACHARIAR.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 15 OF 1933

A Bill to protect Minor Girls.

WHEREAS the evil of daughter selling has assumed dangerous vogue in society ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and extent.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

Definitions.

2. (a) "Parent" in this Act means the father, the mother or any other guardian of the girl under whose protection she is living before her marriage.

(b) A girl shall be deemed to be a major on completing the age of 14 years.

Penalty.

3. If a parent sells his or her daughter before she has attained major ity, he or she shall be liable to punishment which may be an imprisonment for two months or a fine which may extend to Rs. 200 or both.

Police empowered to arrest parents.

4. It shall be within the cognizance of the police to arrest a parent if there are sufficient reasons to believe that the parent has sold the girl.

Offences to be bailable and non-compoundable.

5. All offences under the Act shall be bailable and shall not be compoundable.

Jurisdiction.

6. It shall be within the competence of the Court of Sessions, or a first or second-class Magistrate to try an offence under this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The evil of daughter selling has assumed dangerous proportions in Indian society and has considerably increased the number of widows in the Hindu society. This Bill provides for the protection of minor girls (a) against inequality of ages of bride and bridegroom and (b) against their treatment as commodities as opposed to human beings.

This practice is opposed to all canons of morality and the best ideas of every community. Religious organizations are all opposed to such practices.

RAGHUBIR SINGH.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 16 OF 1933.

A Bill to provide for the abolition of untouchability among the Hindus.

WHEREAS it is increasingly felt by the Hindu Community that the disabilities which are imposed by social custom and usage on certain classes of Hindus commonly known as the Depressed Classes, and which have been in certain matters even legally recognized in the adjudication of rights and duties in civil and criminal proceedings are repugnant to modern conditions and ideas of justice and social solidarity and should no longer be recognized by law or otherwise enforced, but should be severely discouraged ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Untouchability Abolition Act, 193 .

(2) It shall apply to the whole of British India.

Untouchability not to be recognised in law.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in any existing enactment, regulation or order and notwithstanding any custom or usage or interpretation of law, no penalty, disadvantage or disability shall be imposed upon, or any discrimination made or recognised against, any subject of the State on the ground that such person belongs to an untouchable caste or class among Hindus, and no civil or criminal Court shall recognise any custom of untouchability or base its adjudication on such a custom.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The custom of segregation of certain Hindu Classes as outcaste and untouchable and the social and other disabilities they suffer under in consequence of such custom, have been the subject matter of universal condemnation. There has been continuous agitation on the part of the leaders of these Depressed Classes as they have been commonly called, as well as on the part of reformers among the main body of Hindus to put an end to this custom of untouchability and to the disabilities arising therefrom. Recent events have brought this agitation to ahead, and there is at present a great wave of feeling throughout India for the removal of the disabilities of these Depressed Classes which in the interest of humanity and general welfare advantage should be taken of by the State. It is therefore desirable that a general law should be passed prohibiting the recognition of any rights, or disabilities arising out of the usage regarding untouchability, either in civil or criminal Courts.

M. C. RAJAH.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 28th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 18 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Penal Code and the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Penal Code, and the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, for the purposes hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XLV of 1860. V of 1898.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1933.

Insertion of a new section in Act XLV of 1860.

2. After section 507 of the Indian Penal Code the following new section shall be inserted, namely :— XLV of 1860.

Boycotting an Industrial Establishment for the recovery of debt.

"507-A. Whoever boats or loiters within the precincts of, or near, or within sight of any gate of, an industrial Establishment for the recovery of debt due from any workman or servant employed in such establishment shall be punished with imprisonment of either description which may extend to one year or with fine or with both."

Amendment of Schedule II of Act V of 1898.

3. In Schedule II to the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, after the entry relating to section 507 of the Indian Penal Code the following entry shall be inserted, namely :— V of 1898. XLV of 1860.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
"507-A	Boycotting an Industrial Establishment for recovery of debt.	Shall arrest without a warrant.	Ditto.	Ditto.	Ditto	Imprisonment of either description for one year or fine or both.	"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Among the evils from which industrial workers suffer may be mentioned the method of recovering debt by the use of intimidation and even violence, adopted by many money lenders. Instead of taking any legal proceedings for the recovery of the debts they use their lathi and several times beset the industrial establishment by waiting outside the factory-gate on pay-day awaiting to pounce on their debtors as they emerge. The object of their waiting outside the factory is to ensure that their claims form the first charge on the workers' wages. Some of the employers even permit the money-lender to enter the factory compound and to collect his dues before the workers' wages reach their hands. This question was fully enquired into by the Royal Commission on Indian Labour. The Commission have expressed their views on this question as follows :—

> "The preceding paragraphs have dealt mainly with the money lender who threatens his victim with legal proceedings and, more rarely, drives him into Court. There are, however, many money lenders who prey upon workers and depend upon the threat of violence rather than of the processes of the law. The lathi is the only Court to which they appeal, and they may be seen waiting outside the factory-gate on pay-day ready to pounce on their debtors as they emerge. Our recommendations should not be ineffective even in this case, for they are as a rule fairly scrupulous even in using intimidation, and seldom employ it to exact more than the law allows. But stronger measures are justified, particularly as the object of waiting outside the factory is to ensure that their claims form the first charge on wages. We recommend, therefore, that besetting an industrial establishment for the recovery of debts be made a criminal and cognizable offence. Besetting might be defined as loitering within the precincts or near or within sight of any gate or outlet of the establishment. This should go far to cripple the activities of a class of money-lender already generally regarded as a pest to society. It should also bring to an end the still more deplorable practice of some employers who permit the money-lender to enter the factory compound and to collect his dues before the workers' wages reach their hands."

The ordinary Criminal Law does not contain any provision making such besetting an offence. It is, therefore, necessary to amend the Criminal Law by adding a new section to the Penal Code declaring besetting or loitering within the precincts or near or within sight of any gate or outlet of an establishment, an offence. The consequential amendment by adding new entries to the Second Schedule to the Criminal Procedure Code making this offence a cognizable one becomes necessary. The Bill is intended to give effect to the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Indian Labour.

N. M. JOSHI.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1938 :—

I.A. BILL No. 19 OF 1938.

A Bill to amend the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929.

XIX of 1929.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929 ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Child Marriage Restraint (Amendment) Act, 1938 .

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including the British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

XIX of 1929.

Amendment of section 1, Act XIX of 1929.

2. To section 1 of the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929, after sub-section (3) the following sub section shall be added, namely :—

"(4) It shall not apply to marriages contracted or solemnized under the Muhammadan Law."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929, was passed with the support of official Members in face of strong opposition from the majority of Muslim Members of the Legislative Assembly and the Muslim public of the country. Even after its being enacted into law the Musalmans have persistently been opposing its application to the marriages solemnized or contracted according to Muslim Shariat. The Muslims have their own codified law which has been given by the Creator himself to us and it is beyond our power to enforce such earthly laws as are contrary to His will. Marriage under the Islamic law is not only a civil contract but a sacrament. The Act of 1929 aims at making an offence of what is permissible according to Shariat, i.e., Islamic law and which the Legislature should not have tampered with. This was obviously an unwarranted and uncalled for encroachment upon the personal rights of a Muslim. The resentment and agitation over this Act among the Musalmans is very great and unless they are excluded from its application they will continue to agitate and will never be at rest. The Islamic law is so complete in all its aspects that it is hardly necessary to amend it.

My Bill is intended to exempt the Musalmans from the operation of that Act which has been so much resented to by the Muslims of India.

M MASWOOD AHMAD

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 20 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Musalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Musalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913; It is hereby enacted as follows :— VI of 1913.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Musalman Wakf Validating (Amendment) Act, 193 .

Amendment of section 2, Act VI of 1913. 2. In clause (i) of section 2 of the Musalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913 after the words "any property" the words "whether immovable or movable including shares in a company" shall be inserted. VI of 1913.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

From the definition of wakf given in the Wakf Validating Act, 1913, section 2, clause (i), it is clear that a wakf may be created of any property whether movable or immovable. But before the Act it was not settled whether a valid wakf can be created of movable property and there are conflicting decisions on the point of the Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad High Courts The Bill proposes to remove any doubt which may still arise as to the validity of wakfs of movables such as coins and shares in a company.

A. SUHRAWARDY.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 21 OF 1933

A Bill to fix the amount of maintenance to which Hindu widows are entitled.

WHEREAS it is expedient to fix the amount of maintenance to which Hindu widows are entitled, and to make that maintenance a charge on their husbands' family property ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title, extent and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Hindu Widows' Right of Maintenance Act, 193 .

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Southal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on the day of 19 .

Definition of "widow". 2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context, "widow" includes the widow of a person who, at the time of his death, professed the Hindu, Jaina, or Sikh religion.

Share of widow in case of joint family under the Mitakshara law. 3. Where a person is governed by the Mitakshara school of Hindu law and is, at the time of his death, a member of a joint Hindu family, his widow shall—

(a) if sonless, be entitled to get as maintenance the entire income which her husband's share in the joint family estate would, on one partition yield and

(b) if her husband has left son or sons, be entitled to get the income of such share of the estate as a son would get on partition.

Share of widow when husband was a member of joint family under the Mitakshara law. 4. Where a person is governed by the Mitakshara school of Hindu law and is not, at the time of his death, a member of a joint Hindu family, his widow shall, if sonless, get her husband's property as a widow's estate. If, however, a posthumous son is born to her or if she adopt a son to her husband she shall be entitled to get, as maintenance, the amount of the income of her husband's property which a son would get on partition,

5. Where a person is governed by the Dayabhaga school of Hindu law, the widow shall, where her husband has left a son or sons be entitled to get as maintenance, the income of as much of her husband's property as a son would get as on partition. Share of widow under the Dayabhaga law

6. The maintenance, to which a widow is entitled under this Act, shall be a charge on the estate left by her husband, or the estate which belonged at the time of his death to the undivided family of which he was a member when he died, and shall not be affected by any testament which a husband may make during his lifetime to the detriment of the widow's rights as secured to her by this Act. Maintenance of widow to be a charge on husband's estate

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Hindu law of inheritance is very unjust to women It bears with the greatest harshness on the Hindu widows. An attempt to remove the injustice done to them by the law as at present administered in India having failed when the Legislative Assembly threw out in February last the Hindu Widows Right of Inheritance Bill, it has become necessary to enact a measure which would do full justice to Hindu widows so far as their right to maintenance is concerned.

Generally speaking, a Hindu widow is entitled only to maintenance. The amount of maintenance was not fixed or regulated by any rules having the force of law, but depends mostly upon the pleasure of her husband's relatives. The condition of many Hindu widows is, therefore, deplorable In order to secure to them a reasonable and proper maintenance it is necessary to lay down certain broad principles which, without attempting to alter the Hindu law of inheritance, may, to some extent, mitigate the sufferings to which they are subjected owing to the absence of provisions in the law of inheritance giving women their proper share in the property of their parents and their husbands.

This Bill fixes the amount of maintenance to which Hindu widows are entitled.

HARBILAS SARDA

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933:—

L.A. BILL No. 22 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

WHEREAS it is expedient to safeguard the exercise by persons considered by law, custom or usage to be untouchable, of their rights as members of the public, and to provide against any interference therewith; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1933. Short title.

2. To sub-section (1) of section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, the following proviso shall be added, namely:— Amendment of section 144, Act V of 1898.

5 of 1898.

"Provided that no order shall be made under this section against any person or class of persons directing him to abstain from any act in the exercise of his lawful rights solely on the ground that by reason of his belonging to a caste or community considered by law, custom or usage to be untouchable, any obstruction, annoyance or injury, or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury to any other person lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a disturbance of the public tranquility or a riot or an affray is likely or tends to arise."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is intended to remove the danger of the provisions of section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure being used to prevent the exercise of lawful rights as members of the public by persons, coming under the description of "untouchables." Though in law they have equal rights with other castes and communities they are unable to exercise their rights because persons belonging to so-called higher castes are likely to create disturbances with a view to obstruct the peaceful exercise of such rights by them. In such circumstances, it is unfair that the so called untouchables should be restrained by orders under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The proper course in such cases would be that orders under the section should be directed against those who wish to thwart the members of the untouchable classes in the lawful exercise of their civic rights. Authority should in such cases actively protect the so-called untouchable classes, and enable them to exercise their rights in spite of such unwarranted interference with their just and lawful rights.

(c) after clause (k) the following new clause shall be inserted, namely :—

"(kk) all compulsory deposits and other sums due to any servant or workman as or derived from any Provident Fund certified by Government."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

For the low standard of living of the worker, indebtedness is greatly responsible. The Royal Commission on Indian Labour have observed at page 224 of their report as follows :

"the majority of industrial workers are in debt for the greater part of their working lives. Many, indeed, are born in debt and it evokes both admiration and regret to find how commonly a son assumes responsibility for his father's debt, an obligation which rests on religious and social but seldom on legal sanctions. Many come to industry because they are in debt; some are enabled by industry to clear themselves and a few then become money-lenders instead of money borrowers. More often the debts remain and fresh obligations are incurred. It is estimated that, in most of industrial centres, the proportion of families or individuals who are in debt is not less than two thirds of the whole. We believe that in the great majority of cases, the amount of debt exceeds three months wages and is often far in excess of this amount."

One of the important causes of the indebtedness of the workers is, according to the Commission, to a large extent the fact that the lender finds in him a profitable investment and is ready and, indeed, eager to give the worker money which it is contrary to the latter's interest to accept. Among the several recommendations that the Commission have made for removing the indebtedness of the worker some relate to the diminishing of his power of obtaining credit.

Under the law, as it stands now, a money-lender can get an attachment on the wages of any of his debtors, and can use the employer as his debt collector. It is possible to attach half of an employee's salary or an amount by which that salary exceeds 20 rupees, whichever is less and thus in the case of an employee in receipt of a regular salary, the money lender can secure an order from the Court directing the railway administration or a local authority or sometimes even a private employer to hand over month by month a large part of employee's salary until the whole decree has been satisfied. The Royal Commission have observed that the level of indebtedness in terms of wages is higher among the railway servants than among the industrial employees as a whole. The Commission have, therefore, recommended "that the salary and wages of every workman receiving less than Rs. 300 a month be exempted entirely from the possibility of attachment;"

Another recommendation made by the Commission is that the arrest and imprisonment of a worker in execution of a money decree be abolished. The third recommendations is to exempt the contributions to the Provident Fund made by the workmen from being attached in execution of a decree. This Bill is intended to give effect to these recommendations. The amendments proposed are to be made in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933:—

L A. BILL No. 24 OF 1933.

A Bill to amend the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929.

XIX of 1929. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Child Marriage Restraint (Amendment) Act, 1933.

XIX of 1929. 2. In section 2 of the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), after the word "whoever" the words "excepting a Hindu of the Brahman caste" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 2, Act XIX of 1929.

3. In section 4 of the said Act, after the word "whoever" the words "excepting a Hindu of the Brahman caste" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 4, Act XIX of 1929.

4. In section 5 of the said Act, after the word "marriage", where it occurs for the first time, the words "excepting that of a Hindu of the Brahman caste" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 5, Act XIX of 1929.

5. In sub-section (1) of section 6 of the said Act, after the word "person" the words "excepting a Hindu of the Brahmin caste" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 6, Act XIX of 1929.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Brahmins no doubt occupy the foremost position in Hindu society and have tried their best to follow the Shastraic principles and injunctions in their social life usages and customs. This Act is regarded as a great invasion on immemorial customs and a severe shock to their sentiments and religion.

Marriage is a religious sacrament in the life of every Hindu. The Brahmin feels it most and is very apprehensive. The sanctity of marriage with all its attendant circumstances, once violated and disregarded and the principle once deviated, can never be maintained.

The Shastras enjoin that the attainment of puberty of a girl before marriage causes his degradation and consequently the offering of Pinda libation of water to his ancestors which is a compulsory duty of his life becomes unacceptable by them.

Out of the eight kinds of marriage in Hindu society, only four kinds of marriage, such as Daiba, Prajapatya, Arsa and Brahma are approved marriages in Kali Yuga (present age).

The authorities on Hindu Law of Marriage such as Manu, Parasara, Yama, Angira, Kasyapa and the commentators like Jimuta, Bharadwaja, Aswalayan, Sankhyan, Harihar, Gadadhar, Raj Marulanda and others support only ante-puberty marriage which is limited to 10 years and 2 months in the case of a Kanya or bride after which a girl is called a BRUSALI. Moreover, Hindu Brahmins live not only in British India but also in Indian States called Native States. This will cause a disruption amongst the Hindus of British India and those of Native States to which the present Act does not apply But Hindu Law is a personal law—there cannot be any distinction between Hindu marriages celebrated in Indian States and those celebrated in British India

The reasons of physical deterioration and educational development never applies in the case of the Brahmins, for he never allows consummation of marriage before proper growth of either his son or daughter. As head of the society he is more responsible and more careful than any one else.

These inroads of the legislature into social, personal and domestic matters are most uncalled for and more harmful to the Brahmins than to any one else.

The 8th March 1933. E. N. MISRA.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 28 OF 1933.

In case of any valid testamentary disposition by a Hindu husband of his property, his widow shall be entitled notwithstanding such testamentary disposition, or any declaration as to the amount of maintenance provided for therein to get her maintenance not less than one-half of the income of the property to which her husband was entitled at the time of his death and in cases where half the income is insufficient, she may be awarded the whole of the income of such property. Charge.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The Shastras have laid down definitely the persons or class of persons who are entitled to get maintenance. This Bill is not intended any way to modify or expand the Shastra's rule on the point.

2. In these days when the spirit of joint family system is fast disappearing, a widow who is destitute requires greater protection from the State. She requires a larger sum for her maintenance, as she has to meet all the incidental expenses of a separate household establishment than a widow having sons, with whom she might live as a family member. Although a widow having sons is entitled to a share (except perhaps in Southern India) equal to that of a son in the event of a partition of the family estate in lieu of maintenance according to some, and by virtue of her proprietary right according to others, a destitute widow gets no share at all if her husband dies in a state of jointness with his male co-parceners, and even if he dies while separate from them, she gets no share in the inheritance, if the husband likes to disinherit her by testamentary dispositions.

3. Under the Hindu Shastras, a wife is a co-owner with her husband in all his properties [See (1) Mr. Justice Dwarka Nath Mitter's Position of Women, P. 274—78—85. (2) 11 C.L.J., P. 557], and it is by virtue of this right, that she gets a share equal to that of her husband except perhaps in Madras (See I.L.R. 8 Mad. at 123 P.B.), in the event of a partition of the family estate in the life-time of her husband; and equal to that of a man, if there is a partition after his death, amongst the sons. Some of the commentators, particularly Mitra Misra have, however, laid down that her co-ownership is merely fictional and not real, inasmuch on the authority of a text of apastamb, he can never demand a partition (See I.L.R. 4 All. 296). But this position is not accepted by others, particularly Vachaspati Misra, the author of the Vivada Chintamani, the most authoritative commentary of the Mithila School (See 20 W.R. 137 P.C.). According to him, the text of Apastamb refers to an partibility of the fruits of the religious rites and ceremonies and does not apply to her right to partition of the properties. And he has clearly laid down that she can demand partition as against her husband (see Tagore's Translation of the Vivada Chintamani, at revised by Jogendra Chandra Ghose, in his Hindu Law, Volume 2). Even the Mitakshara is not altogether against her right to claim partition, although its views have been very much misunderstood. What it lays down is that she can have a partition, but only by the choice of her husband (See I.L.R. 32 Cal. at 242).

4. It is unfortunate, as has been pointed out by some Judges that Mr. Colebrooke did not translate the chapter of the Mitakshara dealing with woman's rights and consequently the earlier decisions of the British Courts, based mainly upon rule of the English translations of the Shastras, as were available to them have very injuriously affected the rights of the Hindu woman in her husband's property.

5. It must also be remembered that under the Hindu Shastras, there are only two aspects of the rights of a Hindu widow in her husband's property, viz.:—

(1) Under the Mitakshara School, her right to mere maintenance, if her husband dies while joint with his male co-parceners and leaves only ancestral properties though the case is different under the Dayabhag Law.

(2) Her right to succeed to the husband's self-acquired properties, even if he died joint with his co-parceners (See the Sivaganga case, 9 M.I.A. at 610) and to his ancestral properties if he died separate from his co-parceners (Under the Mitakshara School.)

6. The denial of her right to inherit even the separate property of her husband, under the Mitakshara or the Dayabhag School if the husband chooses to disinherit her by testamentary dispositions is the creation of case law based upon the doctrine of a testamentary power of a husband—a doctrine which is clearly foreign to Hindu Law.

See 8 M.I.A. 85.

7. The Hindu Law has, however, clearly laid down that a man is bound to maintain his wife, aged parents, and infant child, even if he has no property. The decisions of our Courts also recognize the right of a Hindu widow to a suitable maintenance out of the estate of her husband. What is yet left uncertain is as to the minimum and maximum amount of the maintenance to which she is entitled with reference to the means of the estate, which is liable for her maintenance. This Bill seeks to remove this uncertainty, as far as any general rule can be laid down on such a point.

8. It has been frequently noticed that a Hindu widow, who is unfortunately destitute, finds herself in great difficulty as soon as her husband dies. Those who succeed to the estate, regard even any grant of maintenance to her, more or less, as an act of charity or grace on their part. Very often she finds none to help her as against those who take possession of the estate, for those who take her part, are characterized as interested persons trying to prevent litigation in the family. She may have lived in palaces, may be high placed in society, may have led a life of affluence and luxury, in the life-time of her husband, but soon after the death of her husband, her condition becomes pitiable. Being ordinarily a purdahnashin lady, she is unable to secure the help from any outsider and has thus to submit to the wishes of those who take possession of the estate.

9. In our Courts, she is at a great disadvantage. We all know that to fight out cases properly in a law Court, one requires a sufficient fund, which most of such widows have not at their disposal. Consequently they are very seldom not well represented in Courts, although their adversaries are able to secure the services of leaders of the bar. For want of funds, they are in majority cases unable to pay the necessary court-fee. They have to begin with pauper applications which are opposed and in majority of cases unsuccessfully. If anyhow they get over the difficulty at this stage, their difficulty at the trial of the suit is almost insurmountable, as for want of funds they are unable to engage competent lawyers, they are unable to produce all the materials before the Courts, to satisfy the several tests laid down by decisions, as factors in fixing the amount. Moreover, they are as a rule very much hampered in prosecution of their cases on account of the influence of their adversaries.

10. Some of the Judges are often inclined to the view that maintenance for a Hindu widow means bare means of living and they fix the amount, keeping this principle in view, as there is no rule of law to control the discretion of the Judges in this matter.

11. It is laid down in the Hindu Shastras that if a man fails to maintain his wife who is blessed with a son, without any fault on her part, she should be given one third of the income of the estate of her husband in lieu of her maintenance and relying upon this principle as embodied in a text of Yajnavalkya, the Bombay High Court awarded one third of the income of the estate as maintenance to Hindu widow (vide (i) I.L.R. 11 Bom. 199, (ii) 9 B.H.C.R. 283). But the Courts generally do not regard this as a binding rule. The difficulty has now become greater in view of a recent pronouncement of the Honourable the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, reported in All. I.R. 1929 P.C. 138 (Ekardeswara Bhuasen's case), where it has been laid down that there is no warrant in Hindu Law for fixing a particular proportion of the income of the husband's estate to be given to his widow for maintenance.

12. Thus, in the absence of a definite rule of law on the point, the amount to be fixed is left to the sole discretion of the Judge. The result is that very much depends upon the inclination and the mentality of the Judge and probably upon his own idea of the necessities of a widow's life. It is within the experience of some of the Honourable Members who have had to deal with such cases, that European Judges take a much more favourable view of the widow's necessities as to award a much larger sum, than Indian Judges, on almost the same set of facts, are inclined to award. To give a concrete instance, I may say that in one case while the Privy Council allowed Rs. 15,000 a year as maintenance to a Hindu widow, whose the income of the property of her husband was, as evidence before them, somewhere between 45 and 50 thousand, which was held to have devolved upon her husband's brother E by reason of family custom and which accordingly passed to E; but when E's another widow sued for maintenance, as against her three stepsons, possessing income of both the estates (i.e., J's estate and E's estate) yielding over a lakh a year, the latter was allowed by a Sub-Judge only Rs. 350 a month. The Sub-Judge's judgment was upheld by High Court and by the Privy Council on the general principle that a trial court's judgment on a question of amount should not be lightly disturbed. [See 5 L.B. 42 Cal. 607 P.C. (Ekardeswarin's case)].

All. I.R. 1929 P.C. (Ekardeswarie's case).

13. Another important reason for the introduction of a Bill like the present has now arisen, in view of the said pronouncement of the P.C. where they lay down as a rule of law that the question of the amount being one of fact should not be disturbed by the Court of Appeal and, in any case, not by the Second Court of Appeal, treating the finding as one of fact.

14. In order, therefore, to make the Law clear to and relieve the helpless widows of their difficulties in getting adequate relief from the Courts, a definite rule of law, fixing the minimum and maximum proportion of income of the estate to be given to a Hindu widow, is necessary, as it will afford a basis for the Courts to proceed to determine the amount of maintenance.

15. As regards the arrears of maintenance which a Hindu widow is entitled to recover out of the estate of her husband the Law does not seem quite settled. In spite of the earlier pronouncement of the Privy Council in her favour on the point, the Bombay High Court has laid down that the award of arrears is entirely discretionary with the Court (Vide I.L.R. 36 Bombay 283), and the Sub-Judge and the Patna High Court in Ekardeswara Bhanson's case, refused to allow her any arrears and actually disallowed it, on the doctrine of the discretion of the Court, as also on the ground that there was no formal demand.

16. The judgment of the High Court was upset by the Privy Council in the above-mentioned case (All. I.R. 1929 P.C.) where they allowed the arrears and have further laid down as a rule of law that a widow is entitled to maintenance from the time of the death of her husband. In view of the difference of opinion in the decisions, it is desirable that the principle laid down by the Privy Council should receive recognition by the Legislature.

17. The maintenance of a widow is, under the Shastras, a charge upon the husband's estate. The decisions of our Courts have, however, made the position doubtful and, in several cases, it has been laid down that such maintenance is not a charge upon the estate, unless it is so declared either by a decree of the Court, or by a contract between the parties. This leads to hardship in many cases. If the persons succeeding to such estate wile away the corpus of the estate, either to defraud her or to meet their own necessities, the widows find it difficult to realize the maintenance—awarded by the Courts. Such persons are not held personally liable and such purchasers are protected by the doctrine of bona fide purchase, for value, without notice. The husband himself, if he is so inclined, can create difficulty in the matter by reckless alienation of his properties. It is, therefore, very desirable that the Law on this point should be definitely laid down by the Legislature, and her maintenance be declared to be a first charge upon her husband's properties.

18. Another safeguard which is necessary in the interests of such widows for timely realisation of their maintenance, even after the decree, is the one laid down by Sir Lawrence Jenkins (in I.L.R. 28 Cal. 441).

This case has been followed in two unreported decisions of the Patna High Court. Provision has been made in this Bill for such safeguards, in the absence of which, a decree of the Court may often become fruitless. We know the difficulty of a decree-holder begins often when he gets a decree, as was pointed out by an eminent Judge. The person liable may drag on the execution case for long, and if the widow has to execute her decree every month for her monthly allowance, she will probably be able to realise it, if at all, after a year or two, if not later.

19. Similarly, with respect to her residence she may have lived in a palace in the lifetime of her husband, but as soon as her husband dies, she is considered to have no right to continue to occupy that house. There have been cases where widows have been actually turned out of the residential houses by persons succeeding to the estate.

20. This Bill seeks to remove the difficulties of helpless widows in these matters.

RAM KRISHNA JHA.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 27 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Penal Code and the Indian Police Act, 1861

Whereas it is expedient further to amend the Indian Penal Code and the Indian Police Act, 1861; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XLV of 1860. V of 1861.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Nudity Exemption Act, 1933.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India including British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

Amendment of section 294, Act XLV of 1860.

2. To section 294 of the Indian Penal Code, the following proviso shall be added, namely :— XLV of 1860.

"Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply to the case of any saint or religious ascetic who remains or goes about naked in obedience to the rules and practice of his order."

Amendment of section 34, Act V of 1861.

3. In section 34 of the Indian Police Act, 1861, the following proviso shall be added to clause Seventh, namely :— V of 1861.

"Provided that nothing contained in this clause shall apply to the case of any saint or religious ascetic who remains or goes about naked in obedience to the rules and practice of his order."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Act XLV of 1860 and Act V of 1861 were passed at a time when public opinion in India had not developed to any extent and people as a rule did not take much interest in the proceedings of the Legislative Council or in the Acts passed by it. Subsequent experience has shown that great care had not been taken at the time about ascertaining the rules and practices of various orders of saints, divines and ascetics. In the case reported in Bombay Law Reporter, Volume 10, page 702, a Muhammadan Saint was prosecuted for going about naked, and the trying Court, composed of Indian gentlemen, who were cognizant of such rules and practices, acquitted the Saint, remarking that his object was not to cause any annoyance to any particular person or the public, and that he was acting from a conscientious objection to wear apparel. But appeal was filed on behalf of the Government in the High Court of Bombay, and the Honourable Judges who most likely were not acquainted with the feelings of the Indians who regard nudity as an emblem of sanctity rather than as assailing modesty and virtue thought it necessary to enforce the strict language of law, and found themselves obliged to convict the accused though exonerating him of any evil or indecent motive. The accused was fined Rs. 1 only under the Bombay Police Act which contains a similar provision of law. The case does not seem to have attracted much notice of the public at that time but is now regarded as a precedent by the Courts, and is being applied in all cases of saints, divines and ascetics. It has in recent times been discovered that the exercise of these clauses hampers the observance of the precepts of the various religious and mystic orders which practise nudity. The present Bill is therefore introduced to remove the aforesaid restrictions on the performance of saints, religious ascetics and divines.

B. N. MISRA

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933:—

L.A. BILL No. 28 OF 1933

A Bill to remove doubts about the application of the doctrine of representation, in case of succession to Stridhan under the Dayabhag.

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove all doubts about the rights of grandsons and great grandsons to inherit by representation of their deceased father or grandfather; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and application.

1 (1) This Act may be called the Removal of doubts about the application of the doctrine of representation, in case of succession to Stridhan under the Dayabhag Act, 1933.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

(3) It shall apply to all persons governed by the Dayabhag.

Succession to Stridhan.

2. When the son is heir to Stridhan, the son of a predeceased son and the great grandson whose father and grandfather are dead, shall be deemed to have the right to inherit according to the doctrine of representation along with the sons, per stirpes, under the Dayabhag School.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The right of representation is allowed in the Dayabhag as far as the great grandson and the term "sons" comprehends not only as many sons as a man may chance to leave behind him, but son's son also and the sons of the latter or great grandsons. The rule of distribution, per stirpes, is an exceptional rule and can apply under the authority of special texts as in the case of male descendants within four degrees or in case of distribution of Stridhan. But there is an uncertainty about which the texts are not clear, whether in case of Stridhan, the grandson whose father is dead and the great grandson, whose father and grandfather are dead also inherit along with sons under the Dayabhag according to the doctrine of representation although the texts seem to favour this view. It is necessary to set this question at rest by removing all doubts about the rights of a grandson by a predeceased son or that of a great grandson by a predeceased grandson whose father also is dead to inherit the Stridhan along with sons, per stirpes, where the son is heir to the Stridhan under the Dayabhag School.

3, FERGUSSON ROAD, NEW DELHI. AMAR NATH DUTT.
16th February 1933.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933:—

L.A. BILL No. 29 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926.

XXXVIII of 1926.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

XXXVIII of 1926.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1 (1) This Act may be called the Indian Bar Councils (Amendment) Act, 1933.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India, where the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926, is in force.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoint.

Amendment of section 4, Act XXXVIII of 1926.

2. In section 4 of the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act),— XXXVIII of 1926.

(a) sub-section (3) shall be omitted; and

(b) the proviso to sub-section (4) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 9, Act XXXVIII of 1926.

3. In section 9 of the said Act,—

(a) to sub-section (3) the following words shall be added at the end, namely :—

"and shall also provide for uniformity of rights, privileges and robes of advocates"; and

(b) sub-section (4) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 14, Act XXXVIII of 1926.

4. In section 14 of the said Act,—

(a) in clause (a) of sub-section (1), the words and figures "subject to the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 9" shall be omitted; and

(b) sub-section (3) shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The main object of the Indian Bar Council's Act, 1926, was the creation of a united Indian Bar. There are certain provisions in the Act, which stand in the way of creation of a united bar by allowing distinction about rights and privileges among advocates. It is desirable that the Act should be so amended, which will do away with all distinctions among advocates, to facilitate the creation of a united Indian bar.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 30 OF 1933.

A Bill to amend certain provisions of the Indian Penal Code relating to offences under Chapters VI and VIII of the said Code.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend certain provisions of the Indian Penal Code relating to offences under Chapters VI and VIII of the said Code; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XLV of 1860

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Penal Code (Amendment) Act, 1933.

(2) It shall extend throughout the whole of British India, and shall have operation outside British India to the same extent as the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Substitution of new section for section 124A, Act XLV of 1860. Sedition.

2. For section 124A of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as the said Code), the following section shall be substituted, namely :— XLV of 1860.

"124A. Whoever by words, either spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representation, or otherwise, excites or attempts to excite, feelings of disaffection to the Government established by law in British India, with intent to incite to disorder, or violence, or the use of force in any form calculated to subvert or assail the lawful authority of the Government, shall be punished with simple imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine or with both.

Explanation.—Comments expressing disapprobation of the measures of the Government or of the system or methods of administration of the Government with a view to obtain their alteration by all legitimate and peaceful means, without inciting to violence or disorder in any form, do not constitute an offence under this section."

Substitution of new section for section 153A, Act XLV of 1860.

3. For section 153A of the said Code the following section shall be substituted, namely :—

Promoting enmity between classes.

"153A. Whoever by words, either spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representations, or otherwise, promotes or attempts to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes with intent to incite to disorder or violence or disturbance of public tranquility, shall be punished with simple imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

Explanation.—It does not amount to an offence within the meaning of this section to point out, without malicious intent or any intention to promote violence or disorder or a disturbance of public tranquillity, matters which are producing or have a tendency to produce, feelings of enmity and hatred between different classes of His Majesty's subjects."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The recrudescence of prosecutions of newspapers and public workers for sedition for some time past as part of the general policy of revival of repression and "resolute government" and the decisions of the Magistracy and Higher Courts have shown a distinct tendency to widen the scope of this dangerous section of penal law of India. This development renders it necessary that early steps should be taken to amend the law so as to bring it into conformity with the acknowledged principles of civilized and free Governments and with the sound principles on which it was originally based before it was amended and interpreted in its present repressive form by bureaucratic courts and legislation between 1890 and 1909.

The law of sedition was first defined and interpreted in the Penal Code in 1870 at the instance and on the high authority of Sir Fitz James Stephen. The definition of the offence was made in ample and general terms, followed by an equally general explanation. Its actual scope was then explained by Sir Fitz James Stephen as Law Member, according to the law as it stood and continues to stand in England, in the following clear terms:—

> "So long as a writer or speaker neither directly nor indirectly suggested or intended to produce the use of force, he did not fall within this section. Let it be shown that the matter complained of was not consistent with a disposition to obey the law. Let it be shown that it was consistent only with a disposition to resist the law by force, and it did fall under this section. Otherwise not."

The Judges to whom fell later the task of interpreting the section, however, construed the scope of section as extending far beyond the limits intended by the distinguished framers of the section. They were, of course, not bound by the proceedings, or speeches made in the Legislative Council and they gave the words a much wider meaning than was intended. Not satisfied with this, the Government further enlarged the scope of the law by the amendment of 1898, which was made in the teeth of the unanimous opposition on the part of the then representatives of the people in the Legislative Council.

It is not necessary to detail here the history of the application of the inhuman administrations of section 124A of the Penal Code to suppress political agitation in India. It is sufficient to say that with the acceptance of the policy of responsible self-Government in India, the restoration of the law of sedition to the position it occupied in other countries and ought to have occupied in India all along, has become imperative.

The terms of the proposed amendments in the Bill do not require lengthy explanation.

Clause 2 states the law of sedition in terms of section 124A as it existed in the Act before it assumed its repressive form in 1898 with the addition of a qualifying clause to prevent the extension of its meaning beyond the limits thus intended and now followed in all well governed countries. The limits of justifiable disaffection have been re-defined in the words used by Sir Fitz James Stephen and by the Judges in England. The clause also provides for the only proper punishment that is now imposed in all civilized countries on political offenders for political offences.

Clause 3 defines the law as to the promotion of class hatred on similar lines.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The working of the Imperial Bank of India Act, 1920, was reviewed at length by the Indian Central Banking Enquiry Committee. The position of the Imperial Bank of India, pending the creation of the Reserve Bank and after, was also discussed by the aforementioned Committee. The pace of Indianisation of the higher personnel of the Bank, a policy to which the Government of India stood committed, was not found satisfactory by all the members of the Committee. Certain changes were also recommended by the Committee with regard to the composition of the Central Board and the Local Boards of the Bank. This Bill is mainly based on the recommendations of the Committee and seeks to remove the defects found from working of the 1920 Act.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933:—

L. A. BILL No. 32 OF 1933.

A Bill to abolish the punishment of death for offences under the Indian Penal Code.

XLV of 1860. WHEREAS it is expedient to abolish the punishment of death in British India, which may be inflicted in pursuance of sentences passed under the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent, application and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Abolition of Capital Punishment Act, 193 .

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

XLV of 1860. (3) The provisions of this Act shall apply to all persons to whom the provisions of the Indian Penal Code apply.

(4) It shall come into force on the 1st January 193 .

Abolition of capital punishment.

XLV of 1860. 2. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Penal Code whereby Courts are empowered to pass a sentence of death by way of punishment, no Court in British India shall pass such sentence of death for any offence committed in or outside British India, by any person to whom the provisions of this Act apply.

Exception.—The provisions of this Act shall not affect the provisions of section 132 of the Indian Penal Code or, of the Indian Army Act, 1911, or any other law or Statute passed either by the Indian Legislature or the British Parliament, under which death penalty can be inflicted, and which affects the discipline or maintenance of His Majesty's military, naval or air force in India. XLV of 1860. VIII of 1911.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Capital punishment has been wholly or partly abolished in many of the progressive countries of the world Australia, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Italy, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and a few States in America have already done away with death penalty. Public opinion in England, and in many other countries is also coming round to the view that capital punishment is a relic of barbarism, and is not suited to the social needs of the present time. The plea that capital punishment acts as a deterrent, and exercises a restraining influence, is not borne out by the experience of modern States.

The arguments in support of the abolition of the death penalty are shortly as follows :—

It demoralises those who inflict it; its harshness has the effect of lessening the public sentiment. To authorise killing is to tamper with the sanctity of human life, sometimes innocent persons have been sentenced to death and in such cases no reparation is possible. Science has now proved that murders are often committed under the influence of a frenzy, which is of the nature of a disease, and has to be treated like many other diseases by proper therapeutic means. To end the life of such criminal may seem to be a short cut; but it has the effect of depriving the culprit of all opportunity of improvement under proper remedial conditions. In times when the dignity of human life was not adequately realised, public conscience tolerated this drastic remedy. But with the growth of a larger perception of the sanctity of human life, and the need of making the best use of the saints, it is necessary that means should be adopted to remove this method of punishment. The principle that punishment for offences should be primarily regarded as a means of correction and reformation of criminals and criminally inclined persons, as also as a means of educating the social conscience of the community against crimes of violence or cruelty makes it imperative at our modern conditions that the death penalty for offences should be abolished. The provisions of the Bill are accordingly intended to give effect to the above objects

The Bill is not intended to affect any Statute of the British Parliament applicable to India; nor does it in any way affect discipline in His Majesty's army, navy, or air force.

GAYA PRASAD SINGH.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 24th March 1933 :—

L.A. BILL No. 33 OF 1933.

A Bill further to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for certain purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for certain purposes; It is hereby enacted as follows :— V of 1908.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 19 .

Insertion of a new rule in Order XX of the First Schedule, Act V of 1908. 2. In Order XX of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, after rule 10, the following new rule shall be inserted, namely :— V of 1908.

Decree for award of maintenance to Hindu widows.

"10 (A). Where the suit is for award of maintenance to the Hindu widow and she has been found entitled to get maintenance, the Court shall—

(1) determine the annual income of the estate out of which her maintenance is payable and award half of such income to such widow if her maintenance is payable out of the estate of her husband, and where the estate out of which her maintenance is payable, is in the hand of her son or sons, then such portion of income shall be awarded to her as would fall to her share if there was a partition by her as against her son or sons, she getting a share on such partition equal to that of a son:

Provided that such maintenance shall not ordinarily exceed Rs. 5,000 a month,

(2) declare that such amount of maintenance will be payable in 12 monthly instalments on the first day of each month;

(3) pass a decree for arrears of maintenance at the same rate as above with interest at 6 per cent. per annum from the date of the death of her husband or son, as the case may be, or from such later date from which she may have ceased to receive maintenance out of the estate liable for it;

(4) make proper provision by way of appointment of a receiver or otherwise for regular payment on the first day of each month, in future, and for payment of the arrears;

(5) declare such maintenance a charge on the estate liable for it;

(6) allot to her for her residence for life and for her exclusive use, the dwelling house which she occupied in the life time of her husband or shall, in addition to such maintenance as aforesaid, award her a suitable sum for house rent and make provision for its regular payment."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The Shastras have laid down definitely the persons or class of persons who are entitled to get maintenance. This Bill is not intended any way to modify or expand the Shastra's rule on the point.

2. In these days when the spirit of joint family system is fast disappearing, a widow who is sonless requires greater protection from the State. She requires a larger sum for her maintenance, as she has to meet all the incidental expenses of a separate household establishment than a widow having sons, with whom she might live as a family member. Although a widow having sons is entitled to a share (except perhaps in Southern India) equal to that of a son in the event of a partition of the family Estate in lieu of maintenance according to some, and by virtue of her proprietory right according to others, a sonless widow gets no share at all if her husband dies in a state of jointness with his male co-parceners, and even if he dies while separate from them, she gets no share in the inheritance, if the husband likes to distribute her by testamental dispositions.

3. Under the Hindu Shastras, a wife is a co-owner with her husband in all his properties [See (1) Mr. Justice Dwarkanath Mitter's Position of Women, P. 274—78—85 (2) 12 C. L. J., P. 657], and it is by virtue of this right, that she gets a share equal to that of her husband (except perhaps in Madras, See I L.R. 3 Mad. at 123 F.B.) in the event of a partition of the family estate in the life-time of her husband; and equal to that of a son, if there is a partition after his death, amongst the sons. Some of the commentators, particularly Mitra Misra, have, however, laid down that her co-ownership is merely fictional and not real, in so much as the authority of a text of smartiment, he can never demand a partition (See D. L. R 4 All. 206) But this position is not accepted by others, particularly Vachaspat Misra, the author of the Vivada Chintamani, the most authoritative commentary of the Mithila School (See 20 W. R. 127 P. C.). According to him, the text of Apastamb refers to no-partition of the fruits of the religious rites and ceremonies and does not apply to her right to partition of the property. And he has clearly laid down that she can demand partition as against her husband (See Tagore's Translation of the Vivada Chintamani, as revised by Jogendra Chandra Ghose, in his Hindu Law, Volume 2). Even the Mitakshara is not altogether against her right to claim partition, although its views have been very much misunderstood. What it lays down is that she can have a partition, but only by the choice of her husband (See I. L. R. 32 Cal. at 242).

4. It is unfortunate, as has been pointed out by some Judges that Mr. Colebrooke did not translate the chapter of the Mitakshara dealing with woman's rights and consequently the earlier decisions of the British Courts, based mainly upon rule of the English translations of the Shastras as were available to them, have very injuriously affected the rights of the Hindu woman in her husband's property

5. It must also be remembered that under the Hindu Shastras there are only two aspects of the rights of a Hindu widow in her husband's property, viz :—

1. Under the Mitakshara School her right to mere maintenance, if her husband die while joint with his male co-parceners and leaves only ancestral properties though the case is different under the Dayabhag Law.
2. Her right to succeed to the husband's self acquired properties, even if he died joint with his co-parceners (See the Sivaganga case, 8 M.I.A. at 510) and to his ancestral properties if he died separate from his co-parceners. (Under the Mitakshara School).

6. The denial of her right to inherit even the separate property of her husband, under the Mitakshara or the Dayabhag School if the husband chooses to disinherit her by Testamentary dispensation is the creation of case law based upon the doctrine of a testamentary power of a husband a doctrine which is clearly foreign to Hindu Law.

See 8 M.I.A. 85

7. The Hindu Law has, however, clearly laid down that a man is bound to maintain his wife, aged parents and infant child, even if he has no property. The decisions of our Courts also recognise the right of a Hindu widow to a suitable maintenance out of the Estate of her husband. What is yet left uncertain is as to the minimum and maximum amount of the maintenance to which she is entitled with reference to the income of the Estate, which is liable for her maintenance. This Bill seeks to remove this uncertainty so far as any general rule can be laid down on such a point.

8 It has been frequently noticed that a Hindu widow, who is unfortunately robbed finds herself in great difficulty as soon as her husband dies. Those who succeed to the Estate regard even any grant of maintenance to her more or less as an act of charity or grace on their part. Very often she finds none to help her as against those who take possession of the estate for those, who take her part are characterised as interested persons trying to prevent litigation in the family. She may have lived in palaces, may be high placed in society, may have led a life of affluence and a luxury, in the life-time of her husband, but soon after the death of her husband, her condition becomes pitiable. Being ordinarily a pardanashin lady, she is unable to secure the help from any outsider and has thus to submit to the wishes of those who take possession of the estate.

9. In our Courts, she is at a great disadvantage. We all know that to fight out cases properly in a law Court, one requires a sufficient fund which most of such widows have not at their disposal. Consequently they are very seldom not well represented in Courts, although their adversaries are able to secure the services of leaders of the bar. For want of funds, they are in majority cases unable to pay the necessary court fee. They have to begin with pauper applications which are opposed and in majority of cases successfully. If anyhow they get over the difficulty at this stage, their difficulty at the trial of the suit is almost insurmountable, as for want of funds they are unable to engage competent lawyers they are unable to produce all the materials before the Courts to satisfy the several tests laid down by decisions, as factors for fixing the amount. Moreover, they are as a rule very much handicapped in prosecution of their cases on account of the influence of their adversaries.

10 Some of the Judges are often inclined to the view that maintenance for a Hindu widow means bare means of living and they fix the amount, keeping this principle in view, as there is no rule of law to control the discretion of the Judges in the matter.

11. It is laid down in the Hindu Shastras that if a man fails to maintain his wife who is blessed with a son, without any fault on her part, she should be given one-third of the income of the estate of her husband in lieu of her maintenance and relying upon this principle as embodied in a text of Yajnavalkya, the Bombay High Court awarded one-third of the income of the estate as maintenance to a Hindu widow, vide (a) I.L.R. 11 Bombay.

101, (c) 8 B.H.C.R. 283. But the Courts generally do not regard this as a binding rule. The difficulty has now become greater in view of a recent pronouncement of the Honourable the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council reported in All. I.R. 1929 P.C. 128 (Ekardeswarie Bhuseen's case) where it has been laid down that there is no warrant in Hindu Law for fixing a particular proportion of the income of the husband's estate to be given to his widow for maintenance.

12. Thus, in the absence of a definite rule of law on the point, the amount to be fixed is left to the sole discretion of the Judge. The result is that very much depends upon the inclination and the mentality of the Judge and probably upon his own idea of the necessities of a widow life. It is, within the experience of some of the Honourable Members who have had to deal with such cases, that European Judges take a much more favourable view of the widow's necessities and award a much larger sum than Indian Judges, on almost the same set of facts, are inclined to award. To give a concrete instance, I may say that in one case, while the Privy Council allowed Rs. 15,000 a year as maintenance to a Hindu widow, where the income of the property of her husband was, on evidence before them, somewhere between 45 and 50 thousand, which was held to have devolved upon her husband's brother E by reason of family custom and which accordingly passed to E; but when E sued the widow sued for maintenance, as against her three step sons, possessing income of both the estates (i.e., J's estate and E's estate), yielding over a lakh a year, the latter was allowed by a Sub-Judge only Rs. 350 a month. The Sub-Judge's judgment was upheld by High Court and by the Privy Council on the general principle that a trial Court's judgment on a question of amount should not be lightly disturbed. (See I.L.R. 42 Cal, 807 P.C.) (Ekardeswaree's case).
All. I.R. 1929 P.C. (Ekardeswaree's case).

13. Another important reason for the introduction of a Bill like the present has now arisen, in view of the said pronouncement of the Privy Council where they laid down as a rule of law that the question of the amount being one of fact, should not be disturbed by the Court of Appeal and in any case, not by the Second Court of Appeal, treating the finding as one of fact.

14. In order, therefore, to make the law definite and relieve the helpless widows of their difficulties in getting adequate relief from the Courts, a definite rule of law, fixing the minimum and maximum proportion of means of the estate to be given to a Hindu widow, is necessary, as it will afford a basis for the Courts to proceed to determine the amount of maintenance.

15. As regards the arrears of maintenance which a Hindu widow is entitled to recover out of the estate of her husband, the law does not seem quite settled. In spite of the earlier pronouncement of the Privy Council in her favour on the point, the Bombay High Court has laid down that the award of arrears is entirely discretionary with the Court (vide I.L.R. 36 Bombay, 393), and the Sub Judge and the Patna High Court in Ekardeswaree Bhuseen's case refused to allow her any arrears and actually disallowed it, on the doctrine of the discretion of the Court, as also on the ground that there was no formal demand.

16. This judgment of the High Court was upset by the Privy Council in the above-mentioned case (All. I.R. 1929, P.C.) where they allowed the arrears and have further laid down, as a rule of law, that a widow is entitled to maintenance from the time of the death of her husband. In view of the difference of opinion in the decisions, it is desirable that the principle laid down by the Privy Council should receive recognition by the Legislature.

17. The maintenance of a widow is, under the Shastras, a charge upon the husband's estate. The decisions of our Courts have, however, made the position doubtful and in several cases, it has been laid down that such maintenance is not a charge upon the estate, unless it is so declared either by a decree of the Court, or by a contract between the parties. This leads to hardship in many cases. If the persons succeeding to such estate sell away the corpus of the estate, either to defraud her or to meet their own necessities, the widows find it difficult to realize the maintenance—awarded by the Courts. Such persons are not held personally liable and such purchasers are protected by the doctrine of bona fide purchase for value, without notice. The husband himself, if he is so inclined, can create difficulty in this matter by reckless alienation of his properties. It is, therefore, very desirable that the law on this point should be definitely laid down by the Legislature and her maintenance be declared to be a first charge upon her husband's properties.

18. Another safeguard which is necessary in the interests of such widows for timely realisation of her maintenance, even after the decree, is the one laid down by Sir Lawrence Jenkins (in I.L.R. 26 Cal., 441).

This case has been followed in two unreported decisions of the Patna High Court. Provision has been made in this Bill for such safeguards, in the absence of which, a decree of the Court may often become fruitless. We know the difficulty of a decree-holder begins often when he gets a decree, as was pointed out by an eminent Judge. The person liable may drag on the execution case for long, and if the widow has to execute her decree every month for her monthly allowance, she will probably be able to realise it, if at all, after a year or two, if not later.

19. Similarly, with respect to her residence she may have lived in a palace in the lifetime of her husband, but as soon as her husband dies, she is considered to have no right to continue to occupy that house. There have been cases where widows have been actually turned out of the residential houses by persons succeeding to the estate.

20. This Bill seeks to remove the difficulties of Indian widows in these matters.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Indian Legislature received the assent of the Governor-General on the 13th April, 1933, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. X OF 1933.
